

Hello,
I'm Dorothy
Naks

Graphic Designer

About me

Hi, I'm Dorothy, a computer science student with a creative spark for graphic design. Combining logic and artistry, I love transforming ideas into visual stories

Educational Background

Currently pursuing my degree in Computer Science at WITI, My interest in design complements my technical knowledge, allowing me to create visually stunning and functional projects.

Skills

I specialize in using Adobe Illustrator to create impactful logos, posters, newsletters, and cards. With its powerful vector tools, I design clean, scalable visuals that communicate messages clearly and creatively, whether for branding, print, or digital media

ON THE BLOG

LIFESTYLE | FASHION | STREETWEAR

Utility fashion continues to dominate, with designers incorporating elements like leather trenches, oversized coats, and high-waisted trousers. At the same time, playful collaborations are making waves, like the Dior x Kaws capsule collection, which merges pop art with fashion through bold motifs and striking color. These looks suggest that while classic items remain essential, fashion-forward styling is leaning heavily into personal expression through unique silhouettes, vibrant accessories, and layers that mix textures and materials.

Additionally, there's a surge in monochromatic outfits that emphasize textural contrasts, such as combining leather with shearling, which is particularly noticeable in street style posts from major events like Paris Fashion Week.

I designed a cover page of a book called beneath the night sky
It is a romance book by Dorah Naks.
I gave it a background image of a couple suspended in the sky
with the moon shining over them

PROJECT 3

Here's my first newsletter. I felt proud that i could do something this good despite it being my first work. It was for times news and i believe i have improved since then.
